

I work nights for one reason why I don't want to be called. The other reason is , if I wanted what they are selling I would contact Them. With all the other media options out there that is enough.

Most of the people that are pushing for this more than likely do not have listed phone numbers. Maybe that should be the requirement that anybody that lobbies for the changes should have their home phone number put at the top of the list, and made public.